An Empathy Lesson Plan for Autism Awareness

Created and Crafted by:
Danielle de Nance, BEd, BA, Teacher with the Calgary Board of Education

Any part of this lesson plan you can pick and choose to use. Ideally this will be about a 4 day lesson in chunks. This lesson can also be adapted from grades K to 4.

POS (Grade 3 as an example)
Language Arts
- Connect prior knowledge and personal experiences with new ideas and information in oral, print and other media texts
- Explain understanding of new concepts in own words
- Explore ideas and feelings by asking questions, talking to others and referring to oral, print and other media texts
- Combine ideas- experiment with arranging and recording ideas and information in a variety of ways
- Find information to answer research questions, using a variety of sources, such as children's magazines, CDROMs, plays, folk tales, songs, stories and the environment
- Locate answers to questions and extract appropriate and significant information from oral, print and other media texts
- Organize ideas and information, using a variety of strategies, such as clustering, categorizing and sequencing

Health
- Examine that individuals grow through similar stages of development at different rates and at different times
- Recognize the effects of sharing positive feelings on self and others; e.g., express appreciation to self and others
- Develop strategies to build and enhance friendships
- Demonstrate inclusive behaviours regardless of individual differences or circumstances; e.g., physical, emotional, cultural, economic Share the story of Kent and his daughter. (Kent has a daughter named Jade who was born with severe Autism and is 16 years old but her abilities are like a 2 year old child. Jade has spoken very few words in her life and today is non-verbal, severe motor issues along with a seizure disorder.

Consult your librarian to see what resources you have at the school.
Even though Jade has these challenges in life she is a person with feelings too. If you were to meet Jade you would understand that her communication is through her eyes and brings a tremendous sense of pure love to everyone she meets. Being different presents challenges many people have not experienced or even know. So it can be difficult for adults, teens and children to understand Jade and different behaviors such as rocking while sitting and waving arms when excited. However, with awareness it can bring Love, Understanding and Acceptance to people like Jade. That is why we created the colouring contest so people can spend 20 minutes to colour and reflect and raise their awareness for people who are Autistic or a disability.

Kent provide on the website- link for teachers to use or have text to read?) and how this month (Autism Awareness month) is to recognize and celebrate people’s differences. Pose the question to the students “What is autism?” Record some of their responses and then use computers in partners to research on kid friendly websites about autism.

YouTube: Search “Autism for kids”. There are great videos for a younger audience that students can watch that are appropriate and helpful to understand.

Here is an example below from the search:

What’s up with Nick (2.04)

(Any new links please preview and share what you find)

Have the kids try and answer the question: What is autism? When they are researching and find some basic information from the sites.

Before the end of the period- gather back together as a class with their research and share what they’ve found.

Closing: This is a global phenomenon that is recognized around the world by the UNITED NATIONS.

Autism Speaks:

What is the point of researching about Autism? Why does it matter that we collected this information today? What can we do on a local level?

Hope, Love, Accept, Inspire

<tr>
<td>15 minutes</td>
<td>Take four pieces of chart paper, or large paper. In the centre of the paper write the following, “Hope is…” “Love is…” “Acceptance is…” “Inspire is…” Put them in different places around the room. Have students put what they believe those words mean to them. They can draw pictures, write a definition, or write an example that they can think of that reminds them of the word. Gather the chart papers and talk about what they put on the chart paper. Show them the Autism Awareness colouring sheet and ask the students how these words connect to what we looked at previously about Autism and bringing awareness to the cause. Have them on a puzzle piece design it to include all the four words. They have to finish the sentence that they connect with best. Example: Hope is… for a better tomorrow. Love is what brings us together Acceptance is being kind to all Inspire is the desire to make a difference</td>
<td>Based on their knowledge and understanding of these words-you may have to push through looking it up in the dictionary and talking through examples/quotes if they need to flesh this out. Additional Conversation: Analyze the butterfly on the sheet. Why do they include a butterfly? What do you think it represents? Talk about the balance between fragile and strong, ability vs challenges</td>

<td>Assessment: In my assessment, I analyze how students can make deeper connections through listening and speaking. Are they able to create examples that connect with the topic? Are they critically</td>

<tr>

<td>If you aren't familiar with loose parts, here is a brief article explaining how it is used in classrooms and why it is a good teaching tool. <tr>
<td></td>
<td>Revisit/reread the story “All My Stripes” (Link in Appendix A) Based on events in the story, have the students design a loose part piece of a time when they felt different from the rest of the group? Was the problem solved when somebody made you feel better or did you continue to feel that way after the way you were treated?” They could use a personal example or if they witnessed</td>
<td></td>
</tr>

</table>
this kind of incident somewhere else. (Example, seeing it in a grocery store)

Possible ways of displaying their loose parts:
1. Take a photo and print them out. Have the students write underneath about what they showed in their piece on the puzzle template.
2. Print a photo and record a video or voice over of them explaining what they designed. Use a QR code instead of their written responses to scan and listen on the puzzle template.

As an exit to the lesson, gather the class together and discuss what they are going to do differently knowing what they know now? It is important for students to not only listen, but act and create change. Using an exit slip- have the students either verbally tell you, or record what they are going to do moving forward.

<tr>
<td>1 hour Symbolism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Using the four words HOPE, LOVE, ACCEPT, INSPIRE- What symbols might you have at home that represent these words? Who or What comes to mind? Ex. Superman could be a symbol of HOPE. My family symbolizes LOVE. Have them think about and collect evidence of where they saw kindness this week or evidence of HOPE, LOVE, ACCEPTANCE, and INSPIRATION in the classroom/school. Gather the students at the end of the week for a class meeting where they share their findings. Then students can write on the second puzzle piece, “I saw ______ in the classroom when ___________. Staple the two pieces together for an interactive bulletin board display.</td>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>30 to 45 minutes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>They have one piece done for the front of the puzzle and to finalize the back puzzle piece to make an interactive bulletin board where students can flip up to see the piece underneath which is a writing piece. Pose the question to the students, “Why is it important to be kind to others?” Brainstorm and record some of their ideas and do a rough copy in their writing books. Have them try to come up with 5 reasons why it is important to be kind to all.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
After they write, share their examples and have the kids edit each other’s work for COPS using a checklist. Complete their good copies on the puzzle piece and staple their two pieces together.

- They see things differently - duck vs the rabbit
- They have a hard time picking up small items
- Autism more common in boys than girls. It’s genetic
- Brain = computer, plugs are backward
- Need more help at school
- Touching - vibrations
- Autism can be good - crazy skills
No cure right now
Not always sure how to respond
Trouble communicating
Amazing things can happen
Good thing we are different
Kids can learn the words
Takes longer
Angry - can explode - hard to calm down
Poor social skills
